I am struggling with how a foreach works in php as I am used to other languages. In the provided code below. Why doesn't this print the key for the array $vehicles?. $vehicles is $vehicles = array_chunk($data, 50); $data = array( array('car' => 'BMW'), array('car' => 'Audi'), array('car' => 'VW'), array('car' => 'Porsche'), array('car' => 'Ferrari'), array('car' => 'Ford') ); $vehicles = array_chunk($data, 50); print_r($vehicles); foreach($vehicles as $key => $vehicle){ print($key); // Output: Array echo $vehicle['car']; } A: If you convert your input array to an associative array it should work better. $data = array( array('car' => 'BMW'), array('car' => 'Audi'), array('car' => 'VW'), array('car' => 'Porsche'), ba244e880a
